SICILY:

Last Stand

Forty thousand Axis troops were all that were left to stand between the Allies and complete conquest of Sicily as the last phase of the battle developed. Of the 40,000, it was estimated that 35,000 were German and the rest Italian.

Although heavily outnumbered by the 10 Allied divisions reported in action, the Axis relied on strong natural entrenchments hewed into the rugged mountains to hold up the British-American drive. The advance against these positions was difficult, with the infantry slowly picking its way up the craggy but barren slopes in the face of stiff mortar and machine gun nests which had held their ground even after fierce Allied artillery barrage.

After being stalled for two weeks in front of Catania, the British 8th army spilled into the city after overcoming strong Axis positions set up along the several rivers winding through the country and in the tall fields of grain. Aligned by the navy's bombardment of the enemy's coastal positions along the Tyrrhenian sea, the U. S. 7th army's drive pointed eastward to Messina, the Axis' last communication link with the Italian mainland.

MINERS:

For Travel Pay

Pride might cometh before the fall, but in John L. Lewis' case, it was his interest in drawing underground pay for his 500,000 United Mine Workers that accounted for his appearance before the War Labor board which he had so often berated in the past.

Occasion was the WLB's hearing on the Illinois Coal Operators' and UMW's agreement for payment of $1.25 a day to the miners for the time spent in traveling underground from the mine's entrance to the diggings. Lewis told the WLB that American coal miners are the only miners in any civilized country who receive no compensation for underground travel.

The agreement also calls for an eight instead of a seven hour day and a six-day work week, which, with the underground travel pay, would increase miners' daily checks by $3. Stating that 1,482 miners died from risks in the pits last year and 72,000 were seriously injured, Lewis said the extra working hours would increase the men's exposure to such accidents. Furthermore, he declared, the miners received just $37 more a year than the lowest classification of government clerical workers.

GRAIN:

Going East

Six hundred million bushels of corn were used during the second quarter of 1943, the department of agriculture reported, with supplies as of July 1 totaling 872 million bushels. Of this amount, 832 million bushels remained on farms.

As of July 1, the department stated that there was a supply of 290 million bushels of oats; over 200 million bushels of barley, and 40 million bushels of rye. Approximately 300 million bushels of wheat were found available for feed.

In relation to livestock, feed supply is reported to be 20 per cent smaller than last year and 14 per cent below average.

STRIKE

In the first test of the Smith-Connally law, 1,005 employees of two plants of the Allis-Chalmers company in Springfield, Ill., voted to strike in protest of the National Labor Relations board's refusal to grant District 50 of the United Mine Workers an election to determine its claim as collective bargaining agent. A total of 836 voted against a strike.

The ballot read: "Do you wish to permit an interruption in war production in wartime as a result of this dispute?"

RUSSIA:

Offensive Climax

The height of the Russians' summer offensive was reached with the fall of Orel. After a month of hard fighting, Marshal Timoshenko's forces swept into the city, even as the bulk of 250,000 Germans was being withdrawn to new positions to the west.

Gen. Timoshenko Held by the Germans since October, 1941, Orel stood in ruin as the Russians moved in, with Nazi rear-guards tackling the Reds in hand-to-hand fighting in delaying action in the streets of the city.

In taking Orel, the Reds threw the full weight of their artillery, planes, tanks and infantry into the battle. Slowly, they ground down German resistance on the north, south and east sides of the city.

On the other end of the central front, the Reds announced capture of Belgorod.

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC:

At Munda

The American attack on Munda in the Solomons stands out as a classic of military strategy.

In the final stages of the battle against a fanatical enemy resisting to the death, American forces drew a tight noose around the Japs, with one column moving to the west of the defenders' line while two other columns hammered in from two ends on the east.

When American planes failed to sufficiently reduce the Japs' hidden pill-boxes hewed in the jungle brush, 13-ton tanks were called into the fray, and these cracked through the dense foliage to advance on the enemy's well-concealed positions and draw their fire. Their gun-fire guided the tanks to their entrenchments and these were quickly subdued with point-blank barrages.

With strong Jap points overrun on the east, American warships and airplanes then moved in along the coast to the west and laid down a thunderous volley into the enemy's positions. As this combined barrage shook up the Japs in their pillboxes and caves, American troops picked their way northward, to ring the enemy from the west.

TAXES:

Corporations' Share

What is the corporations' share of the nation's tax burden?

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau revealed that preliminary statistics show that 509,062 corporations filed returns for 1941.

Except for 40,160 which were inactive with no income data, these corporations paid over seven billion dollars in normal, surtaxes and excess profit taxes.

The government collected nearly 13 billion dollars in revenue for 1941, which would indicate that corporations accounted for almost 80 per cent of receipts.

Furthermore, it was reported, corporations reporting for 1941, 264,625 showed profits, with net income of 18 billion dollars. Approximately 43,648 more corporations made money during the year in 1940.

MISCELLANY:

WAR PRISONERS: One out of every ten American soldiers in Japanese prison camps has died of disease since the Philippines fell, the war department reveals.

WOUNDED: Seventy per cent of wounded Russian soldiers recover and return to the battlefield, report British army surgeons who have been on a mission to the Soviet Union.

Faster Than Sound

To Lt. Col. Cass S. Hough of Plymouth, Mich., fell the rare distinction of traveling faster than sound, or more than 760 miles per hour, while undertaking two experimental flights for the U. S. army air force. Last September, Col. Hough's P-38 Lightning climbed up to 43,000 feet. Then, he came down in record time, the record speed before being leveled off at 18,000 feet. Last February, Col. Hough took a P-4: Thunderbolt to 30,000 feet, and repeated the previous performance.

According to the 36-year-old daredevil, he made his first flight on impulse. As his plane went screaming downward, he said, it felt though a ton of bricks lay on his back, and he could barely lift his arms to write. He was not conscious of his instruments. When he leveled off at 18,000, everything went gray, he declared, but he never lost consciousness.

FARM LAND: Value Rising

With the value of all farm land now above World War I level, government officials were becoming anxious over the possibility of another realty boom which would collapse with a disastrous drop in prices as in the twenties.

Between March and July of this year, farm real estate rose another 3 per cent. The increase occurred throughout all of the geographical regions and in two-thirds of the states. In Indiana, farm property sold 40 per cent above the 1935-39 average.

With commodity prices up one-fourth within the last 12 months and farm income for 1943 expected to exceed 1942's record levels, farmers were said to be active buyers in the market. What with high commodity prices prevailing, speculators also were supposed to be purchasing property for resale.

WAR ARSENAL: 80 Pct. Complete

Of the government's planned construction of 14½ billion dollars of war plant facilities, approximately 12 billion dollars has been completed, Chairman Donald Nelson of the War Production board announced. That represents a completion of 80 per cent of the program compared with 61 per cent at the start of this time last summer.

Greatest gains in the program were in the construction of plants for guns, combat vehicles, aircraft and ammunition. Facilities for producing ammunition are 95 per cent complete.

According to Nelson, the records for other programs show that synthetic rubber, 61 per cent finished; 100 octane gas, 39 per cent; iron and steel, 75 per cent, and chemical products, 90 per cent.

Production Lags

Production of armaments and other goods needed by the army is lagging seriously, Lieut. Gen. Breton B. Somervell, chief of army supply services, warned. He said that 300 million dollars' worth of supplies have not been delivered according to schedule in the last three months.

Output of factories has been going down steadily, he continued, with July figures "decidedly worse" than those of June.

At the same time the treasury reported that actual war spending during July was half a billion dollars less than in June, this being the first month in which war costs have turned downward. Commentators say this decline is another indication of lower production, rather than smaller needs.

Urging all contractors to fulfill their contracts, General Somervell said: "If as a manufacturer, you are scheduled to produce a certain quantity of war material by a specific date, you have undertaken a specific military obligation."

CARGO PLANES: Back to Metal

New developments prompted the army's cancellation of contracts for all wooden transport airplanes and the return to metallic construction.

The wooden craft were designed to operate from small, unimproved landing fields and carry 4,500 pounds of cargo at medium range. But partly because of Allied air dominance, good airports have been put in use in distant combat zones, and the demand has shifted to faster, longer-range planes.

Furthermore, it was reported, aluminum production has increased in a volume sufficient to take care of additional plane building, while certain woods suitable for the type of transport designed are growing scarce.

He urged governmental aid in developing synthetic gasoline methods, but added that he did not think that making gasoline from coal was advisable immediately. He said that eight million men would be needed to manufacture a year's supply.

GAS

Production of gasoline and other petroleum derivatives can be increased by recovering oil now left in wells, and by processing natural gas, oil sands and shales, Dr. Gustav Egleff, renowned scientist, told a joint congressional committee.

He urged governmental aid in developing synthetic gasoline methods, but added that he did not think that making gasoline from coal was advisable immediately. He said that eight million men would be needed to manufacture a year's supply.

Definite Foreign Policy Essential to America

The Issue: Shall Nation Adopt Policy of Participation in World Affairs or Shall We Aim at Nationalistic Goal?

By BAUKHAGE

WNU Service, Union Trust Building Washington, D. C.

Today America faces its first real problem as a world power.

Italy lies before us. General Eisenhower, as commander of the Allied forces of invasion, suddenly becomes a statesman. He is a soldier. He can win battles. Now, he is the man ultimately responsible for directing American world policy. What is American world policy?

Eisenhower is firm in his decisions, certain in his own procedure, because he is responsible only to his Commander-in-Chief.

But who is his Commander-in-Chief? Roosevelt. A man who may suddenly leave the scene in the midst of battle, if the American public so desires.

And then? Has America any firm foreign policy, unfettered by partisan restriction, a clear-marked path that a fighting man or any other man can follow?

In a few short weeks from now, a group of busy, hard-pressed men are going to sit down on Mackinac Island and try to write what America's foreign policy they think ought to be sponsored by the Republican Party.

These men have to face the question of committing the Republican Party to a definite foreign policy. And paradoxically, by committing their party to a definite foreign policy, they may free both political parties of all commitment on foreign policy. For if the Democrats frame similar resolutions, they can save America from a vicious split—one which, if it is not avoided, will crash the party line and can destroy the party system, the rock of our democracy.

The issue which America faces is simple: shall we, as a nation, undertake a policy which will implement our participation in world affairs or shall we retire unto ourselves and pursue the nationalistic policy which says in effect: let the rest of the world stow in its own juice?

Until we took the Philippines, America was able to leave the great and vital problems which should have no political tinge, outside partisan politics. We have had other problems which have remained essentially non-partisan.

The Problems

Take labor. A vital question. But has labor ever voted solidly for one ticket or the other? No. The AFL will cast its traditional Republican votes in the coming election as it always has. Some of the CIO members will vote to support the administration. Others will vote as they dare please.

Slavery—really a labor question. That did nearly wreck the republic because it was made a partisan issue when it was not an issue at all. Many of the influential southerners were just as ready to free their slaves as the rabid abolitionists, heated with emotional fervor, failing to grasp the economic significance, were to force them to do.

Again, unless a cold, calm discussion and understanding of the question of foreign policy takes place, we may face another split which, although it need not mean civil war, may mean a horrid dislocation of our whole political system.

When we went into World War II after Pearl Harbor, the word "isolationism" was forgotten. Today it has come back into our vocabularies and is being batted about, like other political footballs, by people who really don't understand its implications and are woefully ignorant of what dissension it may cause.

Politicians want to overlook it.

They can't. This group of Republicans, headed by Deeney Watson, and a whole flying squadron of Democrats, too, are insistent that they be allowed to "let the people know."

They are going to speak their pieces. And the only hope of lifting this discussion out of partisan politics is a "settlement out of court," an agreement by both parties on a single foreign policy.

Let's get back to that hot and pernicious day in Washington late last month when Deeney Watson and his colleagues from this self-appointed Republican organization, the Republican "foreign policy association," walked across quiet Lafayette Park opposite the White House and longer-range planes.

Failure of both parties to clearly set forth their views on foreign policy may well create a third party movement which could wreck the two-party system, the rock on which our Republic is founded.

Sheer Gowns, Finger-Tip Veils Rate High Fashion for Brides

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THE busiest spot in all fashion-dom these days is the specialty shop or department that caters to a bride-to-be clientele. What with brides and more brides, designers are all of a dither trying to keep pace with the demand for wedding finery.

To have or not to have a picture wedding gown in gleaming satin or lace, or an exquisite white sheer styled with a traditional train of infinite grace, along with all the little ecstasies of an entrancing veil, a bonny bouquet together with an important jewel (gift of the fairy prince of her dreams); that's the problem that confronts many a bride-to-be during the present challenging wartime period.

It is surprising, so say experts who are making trousseau their theme, how the urge persists for traditional white gowns of the dream-come-true type, and it's the sunnery sheers, rayons and cottons that are in the spotlight. Some of the most beguiling are of either frosted or plain organdy, effective eyelet embroidery, starched chiffon or dainty marquisette. The inspiring thing about these 100 per cent ivory white sheers is they give maximum beauty at minimum cost. The fact that they turn to wartime budgeting and that they are made of materials not included in wartime rulings adds greatly to their lure.

As a demonstration of sheer loveliness, note the enchanting wedding gowns illustrated, each of which is a New York creation. The gown to the right pays tribute to the incomparable loveliness of organdy. In this dream gown made of frosted organdy that has a white-on-white floral pattern running all over it, you see sweet simplicity combined with ultra chic. The ruffle theme so outstanding this year in costume design is given full play, with myriads of ruffles extending from waistline to hem, and outlining the graceful lines of the train. Apron-Like Effect

Sunback Dresses Are Practical

Sunback dresses have set a new record in popularity. The interest shown in them this summer has been very genuine and sincere, in that women are appreciating more and more the value of sun rays as health giving. The fact that the sunback dress is in almost every event accompanied with either a matching or a contrast bolero, or some other type of short easily removable jacket, adds to its practicality. Wearing the jacket, one has a perfect costume for general wear throughout the active hours of the day. As an outgrowth of this trend, take note of the sunback-halter styling given to a type of new blouses that are making conversation this season. You'll find these modish sun-inviting blouses comfortable to wear with jacket, skirt or slacks suits and they have an advantage over the dickey in that the jacket can be removed.

Junior Miss Will Choose

Peasant Prints for School

A styling which has been that well received it is being continued in the new fall collections especially in back-to-school fashions is that which simulates an apron effect with ruffling, or with print borderings or with lace or eyelet embroidery edging used just as you see in this picture. This fair maiden is having lots of fun gardening in as pretty a gingham frock as ever one might hope to see. It's by a New York designer and it is a "last word" in chic. Dainty white eyelet batiste trims the full front in apron-like effect, and spruces the shoulders and neck.

AMERICA— A 'GOOD LAND'

OUR GRANDMOTHERS, our great-grandmothers and, in the case of we oldsters, our mothers, bought such food products as they needed for their families out of a barrel, a burlap sack or a pine box. They had but little choice. They could not call for some particular brand of coffee. There was one kind and it came in a burlap sack. It was green and had to be roasted in the oven before it could be used.

The men folks of those days, if they had a good job, would receive as wages as much as $10 a week, for which they worked 72 or more hours. There was no such thing as overtime at any price. They worked as long as there was work to be done.

The wives and mothers of today demand the privilege of picking and choosing what they buy. They like the peas, tomatoes or peaches canned by one concern better than those canned by another. They want the breakfast food the family likes best. They have a choice in the way of a dentifrice. Each member of the family has a choice in the make of shoes he wears, and when Dad buys a car, he selects it by name and not by number.

The cost for variety, for the privilege of picking and choosing, is but little, if any more than grandmother paid, but Dad today makes nearer $10 a day, or more, instead of the $10 a week his father and grandfather were paid. Dad works 40 hours, not 72, and is paid time and a half for any additional hours.

It is a good land, this America in which we live. It has advanced from the horse and buggy conditions of yesteryear to the airplane period of today. We, the American people, like it and what we, the people, like, we, the people, will have—we think.

We realize that the variety we like has made for more jobs and for more wages. It had created a demand for more commodities. It has increased our living standards. It has made possible a greater number of stores to offer the ever-increasing variety we demand from which to select. No one could, or would, stop such progress—we think.

There is, however, a group of theoretical bureaucrats who think differently. They believe the conditions of the horse and buggy days are better for us, and they propose that we largely return to those conditions. They would disperse with all the variety. They would put production and distribution in the hands of the government. They would provide A, B and C grades of each commodity, whether it be canned fruits or vegetables, coffee, bacon, shoes, automobiles, or what have you. There would be only one store in the average community and in it you would buy of the very limited variety it offered. There would be fewer jobs and lower wages.

"But," we say, "such a thing cannot happen to us. We do not want it that way and we will not have such a system."

We forget that group of theoretical bureaucrats has the authority to issue decrees which have the force of law. Of their own volition they can create a system in which they believe, unless congress—the senate and house of representatives—says "no." It is not unlikely that congress may fail to say that "no."

As it stands right now, that group of theoretical bureaucrats has authority by which it can change the whole American way of life. It is considered a war emergency measure, but once applied, it would take more years than those now living have left in order to change back again.

To prevent such a change, we must do more than think it cannot happen.

PRESIDENT AS COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF

JUST WHAT does the position of President of the United States imply? What authority goes with that job? Under the Constitution, the President is commander-in-chief of the armed forces. To our soldiers, sailors and marines, his word is law. To the Joes and Johns and Jims, the Marys, Marthas and Matildas, he is the President, the chief executive. He is the manager of the civilian operations of the government, but subject to the will of congress. Congress can, and has, passed along to the President some authority he would not otherwise have, and congress can take away the authority it has given him at any time. We, the civilians, respect the job of President as such. We selected the President as our chief executive, and to be the commander-in-chief of our armed forces.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

You Can Stretch Meats and Have Delicious Meals

Leftovers need not recline on the refrigerator shelf when you can make them into delicious meat pies like this, simply and easily. Use leftovers from a roast with a few fresh vegetables and gravy to tuck aside the flaky piecrust.

Short on red points at the end of the week? There are several answers to the problem and I'm devoting the column to those suggestions today.

It's a good idea to be smart in your use of leftovers, and this is particularly true if you've splurged at the beginning of the week by purchasing a roast.

After using the roast twice, you still have a bit of meat left on the bones, and if you fix it with an eye to camouflage, you can have a savory meal out of it.

Best way of extending meat when there's little enough of that is by using vegetables generously. Cut off what pieces of meat you can find on the bone and combine these with some lovely, fresh-cooked vegetables such as carrots, peas, onions, potatoes and perhaps a few strips of green pepper for flavor.

Combine all together with some of your favorite seasonings and tuck the whole mixture into these individual meat pies. In this way, your leftovers won't languish in the refrigerator.

Making Meat Pies.

Stuff together 2 cups all-purpose flour and $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon salt. Cut into this $\frac{1}{2}$ cup lard with a spatula and work until the particles are the size of a small pea. Sprinkle 4 tablespoons water over the mixture, working it lightly with a fork until all the particles are moistened and in small lumps. Press dough into a ball, handling as little as possible.

Flour board lightly. Divide pastry in half, roll lightly to an eighth-inch thickness. Using a $\frac{3}{4}$ -inch pie plate, cut circles from pastry.

Cut $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch wedge from circle to insure better fit into muffin tins.

Press the pastry lightly to fit tins and lap over wedge. Fill with meat—vegetable mixture. Roll out remaining dough, cut in circles to fit over top of each muffin tin. Press edges of crust together. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) 35 minutes. Remove from tins and serve hot.

Here's a salad that's rich in protein and can be used to pitch in for the main dish when points are on the slim side:

Green Lima and Bacon Salad.

(Serves 5 to 6)

2 cups cooked green lima beans

2 hard-cooked eggs

$\frac{1}{4}$ cup salted peanuts, chopped

2 teaspoons onion juice

1 cup crisp bacon

1 cup diced celery

$\frac{1}{4}$ cup chopped pickle

$\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt, if desired

Mayonnaise

Lynn Says:

Tips on Keeping Cool: Acting cool and thinking cool actually works a magic in making you cool.

It's important to plan your day ahead so that it runs smoothly and so there will be a minimum of confusion—for that always makes weather hotter.

Dress cool, eat cool. Dress sensibly, keeping plenty of clean summer clothes on hand—things that can be done up with soap and water in a hurry and need little ironing. Crispy salads—even in the imagination—cool you off, and of course, frosty drinks.

Do your hot kitchen work in the cool morning hours. Make whatever preparations you can on the food front and store in the refrigerator, ready to pull out for dinner with a minimum of rush and hurry. Keep things simple, and you'll keep cool.

One of the biggest man-made explosions on record was set off in the Bonawe quarries in Argyllshire, Scotland, on May 31, 1935, says Collier's. Eighteen months of preparation were required for this blast, which brought down 750,000 tons of granite, enough to provide five years' work.

Before the explosion, householders in the nearby towns of Taynuilt removed their pictures, mirrors and crockery to a place of safety.

ALKA-SELTZERBRIGHTENS*MY DAY*Occasionally, I wake up in the morning with a headache. It sometimes wears off along the middle of the forenoon, but I don't want to wait that long, so I drink a glass of sparkling ALKA-SELTZER. In just a little while I am feeling a lot better.*Sometimes the week's ironing tires me and makes me sore and stiff. Then it's ALKA-SELTZER to the rescue—a tablet or two and a little rest make me feel more like finishing the job.*And when I eat "not wisely but too well" ALKA-SELTZER relieves the Acid Indigestion that so often follows.*Yes, Alka-Seltzer brightens my day. It brings relief from so many of my discomforts, that I always keep it handy.*Why don't you get a package of ALKA-SELTZER at your drug store today?*Large Package 60¢, Small 30¢.*OMER

• OUR COMIC SECTION •

In the Army
Sarge—Don't try to make a monkey out of me. Do you think I got these service stripes for doing nothing?
Private—Heck no! If you had, you'd look like a zebra instead of a monkey!

Talk Fast, Brother!
Hubby—You can't say I made any noise coming home last night.
Wifey—Yes, that's true. But the three friends who were carrying you certainly did.

Good Advice
Lady—I can't imagine what's the matter with me. I'm continually worrying and thinking about myself.
Doctor—Tut, tut, you must stop worrying about trifles!

Hardy Any Rest
Rastus—You all y'all yo'self no moah, Sambo. Is you all sick or sompin'?

Sambo—Ah's got insomnia. Ah keeps wakin' up ever' few days!

FOR CRYING OUT LOUD

Explorer—In the Arctic, Eskimos live on candles and blubber.
Sweet Thing—Well, if I had to eat candles, I would too.

Up in Them Thar Hills
Clerk—Say, your shoes are mixed. You've got the left shoe on the right foot.

Zeek—Wall, I'll be darned! Here for twenty years I thought I was club footed!

Itches an' Itches
Harry—What is a niche in a church?

Jerry—It's just the same as an itch anywhere else, only you can't scratch it as well.

Beautiful Wife?
Mrs. Jones—Mr. Brown has a wonderful memory. He can remember back to when his mother used to tell him a witch would get him if he weren't a good boy.

Mrs. Smith—Well, from the looks of his wife, I'd say he wasn't a very good boy.

The Woman of It
Hubby—I've thought it over, dear, and decided to agree with you.

Wifey—That's too bad, I've just changed my mind.

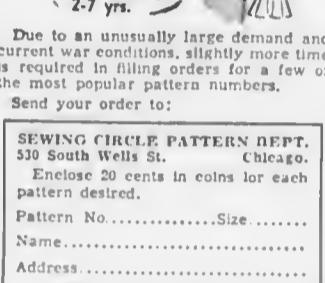

All Thumbs
Sambo—Des gloves are too small for mah hands.

Rastus—You all just got dem gloves on de wrong hands.

Sambo—Dey's de only hands Ah got!

Hardened Criminal
Tommy—How many times have you been whipped in school?

Johnny—Oh, I don't know. I never pay any attention to things that go on behind my back.

Blackout, Maybe
Father—Helen, did that young man smoke in the parlor last night? I found burned matches there.

Helen—Oh no, father; he just lit one or two to see what time it was.

Meow!
"Ain't this blackout awful," complained the unpopular Mrs. Jones to her neighbor.

"I shouldn't bother, dearie," replied Mrs. Smith. "After a time you'll be able to see. Cats can, you know."

And Who Isn't?
Lazy Boy—I'm always tired on the first of April.

Friend—Why?

Lazy Boy—Who wouldn't be after a March of 31 days?

A deaf woman entered a church with an ear trumpet. Soon after she had seated herself, an usher tiptoed over and whispered, "One toot, and out you go."

Diagnosis
"I have a pain in my abdomen," said the recruit to the army doctor.

"Young man," replied the medic, "officers have abdomens, sergeants have stomachs, you have bellyache."

Don't We All?
The story goes that Hitler was inspecting troops when he asked a soldier, "What would be your last wish if a Russian bomb fell near you?"

The soldier replied, "I would wish that my beloved Fuehrer could be at my side."

NO ASPIRIN

Our Anger
If anger proceeds from a great cause, it turns to fury; if from a small cause, it is perverseness; and so is always either terrible or ridiculous.—Jeremy Taylor.

TABASCO

The snappiest seasoning known, and the world's most widely distributed food product! A dash of this piquant and spicy flavor to any food.

TABASCO—the essential secret of master chefs for more than 75 years!

'Round
the clock!

Kellogg's Corn Flakes are an excellent wartime meal... any time of day. Quick to fix... extra good... nutritious... they save time, work, fuel, other foods.

WOMAN IN THE WAR

IRENE DAILEY, machinist at the Arma Corp., helps make instruments for gun-fire control.

THE ZONE

WHERE CIGARETTES ARE JUDGED

The "T-ZONE"—Taste and Throat—is the proving ground for cigarettes. Only you can tell them that decide which cigarette tastes best to you... how it affects your throat. Based on the experience of thousands of smokers, we believe Camel will suit your "T-ZONE" to a "T." Prove it for yourself!
